Tax Cut Bill By President Is Possible

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional sources expect President Kennedy to propose a relatively modest income tax cut effective July 1, to be followed by a second reduction next year. The two-stage reduction, they said, will add up to about $10 billion.

This would be offset to a still-unknown extent by eliminating or modifying some of the present exemptions and special treatment of income.

The tax message Kennedy has said he will send Congress late this month is expected to anticipate increased deficits for a year or two, but to argue that spending and investment stimulated by a tax cut would soon increase revenues enough to take up the slack.

General outlines of the proposals may be included in Kennedy's State of the Union message Monday and the budget submitted Thursday.

As for the chances that Congress will enact the presidential program, one source put it this way:

"All that is certain is that there is no chance of a tax cut effective any earlier than July 1. There is some chance that a bill could be passed during the year and the effective date set back to July 1."

He said it would be a major accomplishment for both houses to complete hearings, bill writing and floor action on a measure as complicated as a revenue code revision by the time Congress adjourns in the fall.

And even then, leaders like Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee would have to overcome their objections to any retroactive feature if the tax savings were to apply to income received as early as July 1.

Kennedy has abandoned his earlier suggestion that the cut be backdated to Jan. 1, 1963.

A source ordinarily posted on administration plans said he does not know of any final decision on details, but that the July 1 date, the general size of the proposed cut and the principle that rate reductions would have to be partly compensated for by taxing more income appeared fairly well fixed.

Insurgents Attack Home of Castro

By GEORGE ARFELD
HAVANA (AP)—A small band of insurgents has attacked the home of a family of ardent supporters of Fidel Castro's revolution and burned down a government store in central Cuba, the newspaper El Mundo reported today.

It said one family member was killed and two were wounded. The newspaper story did not say when the attack occurred. It reported one of the attackers was arrested.

The attack was in the quaint, colonial town of Trinidad on the south coast of the province of Las Villas, about 200 miles from Havana. Las Villas has been the scene of previous counter-revolutionary activities.

Coinciding with disclosure of the attack, the government announced that Soviet-built MIG jets of the Cuban Air Force flying over central and western Cuba during the day would break the sound barrier. It warned the population not to be frightened by sonic booms.

El Mundo identified the leaders of the insurgent band as Pedro Gonzalez Sanchez and Jose Tapanes. It did not identify the one member of the band who was arrested.

The paper said the insurgents entered the home of Marin Valdivia, whose brothers and sons were members of the revolutionary militia.

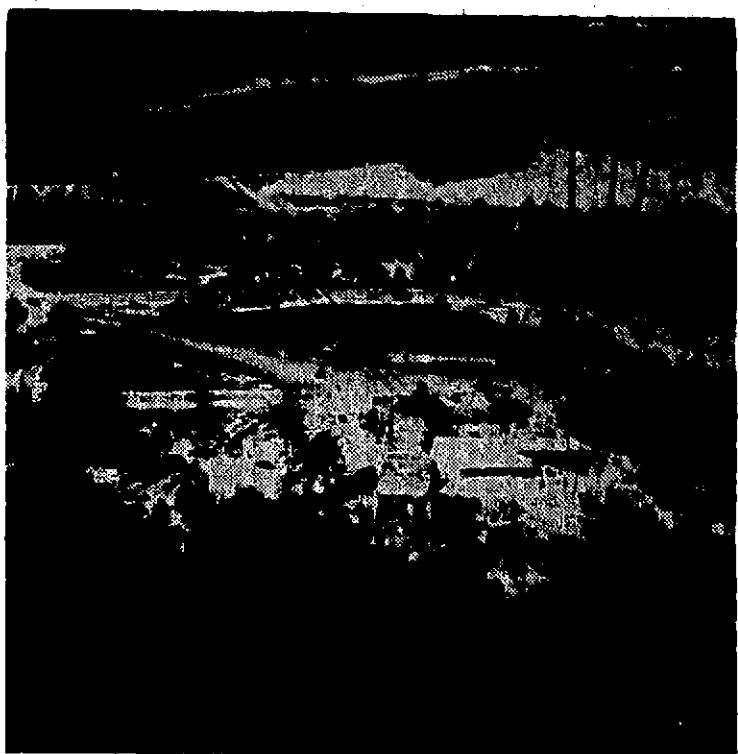

It said one of the family members was wounded in the leg at the outbreak of the raid. One of his brothers was killed and another wounded when they came to his aid.

After the raid, the paper said, the raiding party set fire to a nearby government-operated country general store.

"The group of criminals is being chased by revolutionary armed forces," the newspaper said.

Journalistic Briefings to Be Dropped

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington institution of journalistic background briefings probably is dead so far as President Kennedy is concerned.

And probably there will be few real mourners around the White House and even fewer among those newsmen who would prefer to get the news out in the open in the first place.

These backgrounders have a set of rules under which the person doing the briefing may not be quoted by name or in direct quotes. Reporters must resort to paraphrase and to pinning what they learn on unimpeachable sources, or, as in the case of the President, "the highest authority."

Kennedy held a background briefing at Palm Beach, Fla., on New Year's eve with 35 newsmen clustered around the living room of his vacation residence. The stories went out afterward, attributed to the highest authority or friends of the President.

But then, over the weekend two British newspapers turned up with direct quotes from the briefing and identified Kennedy as the source. White House authorities said there was some breaching of the rules in the American press.

So Thursday the White House made public some of the quotations picked up in Britain. Among the major points in the interview: Allies—The President has decided to assert a more vigorous and determined American leadership in world affairs even at the cost of creating major friction with U.S. allies, especially in Europe.

Missiles—Kennedy believes one reason Britain has decided to accept the Polaris missile is because it "offers a hope of being an effective deterrent for a much longer period" than the now abandoned Skybolt.

Newsmen who attended the Palm Beach briefing, obeyed the rules and then saw Kennedy's words in print in British papers kicked up a rumpus. Now word is circulating that Kennedy probably will have no more backgrounders.

But possibly there will be other presidential exchanges with the press patterned after the President's Dec. 17 national television appearance, some fitted to electronic journalism and some to journalism of the printed word—and all on the record and in the open.

Kennedy has been considering a television program with a British, French and German interviewer for consumption primarily abroad.

And there is some possibility that he may have some small-scale news conferences, not on a background basis but with everything he says attributable to him for direct quotation.

Cuba to Release 100 Americans on Probation

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U. S. District Judge Gordon E. Young placed Donald R. Gildewell of Little Rock on probation for three years Thursday for embezzling $7,000 from the Bank of Arkansas while employed as a cashier from July 15, 1960 to Sept. 19, 1962.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Gildewell confessed the theft to the bank president after he had been fired for failing to carry out some duties. The shortage had not been discovered. Gildewell agreed to pay the bank back, at six per cent interest.

Tshombe Is Back After Peace Tour

By JOHN LATZ
ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga was back under surveillance in his palace Thursday night after making a peace tour to the Rhodesian border and calling on his disorganized troops not to resist U.N. forces.

U.N. officials said Tshombe no longer was under house arrest because he showed willingness to cooperate with the United Nations. But they said he will have to observe the nightly curfew imposed on Elisabethville on Dec. 30 after U.N. forces seized control of the provincial capital.

A U.N. spokesman in New York said Tshombe will not be restrained otherwise unless he tries to incite Katangans against the United Nations or renews his call for a scorched-earth policy.

Tshombe told newsmen in Mokambo, on the border of Northern Rhodesia, that he made his tour Thursday "to stop bloodshed and prove my good intentions."

But he insisted at a news conference that every movement by U.N. troops in a new direction in the future would be met with resistance. The British consulate in Elisabethville said Tshombe had given a guarantee only for the movement of U.N. troops to Sakania, where the railroad crosses the Rhodesian border 200 miles southeast of Elisabethville.

The U.N. command still was apprehensive about the situation in Kolwezi, the major industrial center 150 miles northwest of Elisabethville, where diehard followers of Tshombe were reported ready to blow up the copper and cobalt plants and a power dam of the U.N. tried to move in.

There was no indication yet what the U.N. command plans to do about Kolwezi. A report from Kitwe, just across the border in Northern Rhodesia, said Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo left Mokambo for Kolwezi after conferring with Tshombe.

Secretary-General U. Thant had ordered Tshombe put under house arrest Tuesday after the fiery president threatened to detonate the installations at Kolwezi if U.N. forces advanced on the town. The order was lifted after Tshombe offered to cooperate, and he set out on his peace pilgrimage.

Tshombe drove to the border in a black sedan, exhorting remnants of his troops not to fire on a U.N. column trying to open clogged road and rail supply lines from Northern Rhodesia to food-short Elisabethville.

Tshombe made the 174-mile journey to the border town of Mokambo without a shot being fired. A lone U.N. jeep escorted the presidential limousine as it moved slowly several miles ahead of the U.N. column.

The U.N. column camped for the night in Mokambo and planned to push on today to Sakania.

Seven Killed In Crash Of Helicopter

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Searchers found today that all seven Americans aboard a U.S. Army troop-carrying helicopter died in the crash of the craft southwest of here. Communist ground fire was suspected.

An H21 helicopter that was searching for the downed plane is also reported to have crashed. There was no immediate word of casualties.

The seven killed brought to 53 the number of Americans dead from all causes since the military buildup in Viet Nam began a year ago. The crash came in the midst of intensified air operations against the Viet Cong.

The helicopter reportedly was carrying other pilots and crewmen. It had been flying back to Saigon at an altitude of 2,500 feet over the Mekong River delta, 60 miles southwest of the capital, when it went down about one hour after sunset.

Two other U.S. Army 21 helicopters reportedly made forced landings because of mechanical difficulties some 110 miles southwest of Saigon.

A search continued, meanwhile, for a two-engine Mohawk reconnaissance plane that fell somewhere in the mountain north of here Thursday. A U.S. Army pilot and a Vietnamese army observer were in the plane. The two were armed and carried survival kit.

War planes strafed and bombed widespread objective in South Viet Nam Friday. The growing air operation followed a visit to the theater by Adm. Harry D. Felt, commander of U.S. force in the Pacific. He said the war was taking a generally favorable course for the South Viet Nam government.

Martyr of Badlands a Mystery

WATFORD CITY, N.D. (AP)—A crucifix and an Indian lance donated by a former Lutheran minister to the New Sublaco Abbey near Fort Smith has set old timers here pondering "the mystery martyr of the badlands."

Rev. Richard C. Jahn of Little Rock, a former minister at Watford City, said he and others found the relics in a cave near Squaw Gap, about 50 miles southwest of here, in 1916 while hunting with Buffalo Bill Cody in 1916.

The crucifix was embedded in what appeared to be an altar crudely made of clay and stone. The lance head was thrust into the rib cage of one of three skeletons found in the cave. Jahn said.

The skeleton could be that of a pioneer missionary priest, experts theorized. The priest may have preceded the first known white explorers of what is now North Dakota, the La Verendrye Expedition of 1738.

Jahn said a physician in the hunting party identified the skeleton which bore the lance head as that of a white man. One set could not be identified. The third was believed to be that of an Indian.

Jahn said there was no doubt in his mind that the white skeleton was the remains of a "priest who was martyred."

"A lay person would hardly have traveled with a crucifix. As to when the tragedy happened, we can only conjecture. Lewis and Clark traveled in the region in 1804-05, but no mention is made of a pioneer missionary having preceded them."

Rev. Louis Pfaller of the Assumption abbey at nearby Richardson, found what he believes to be the cave mentioned by Jahn.

It was on a ranch, 45 miles north of Beach, N.D., about four miles from the Montana border. Pfaller said the boys found the heavy stone roof of the cave cracked and fallen in, and excavation would be almost impossible.

University Gets Research Money

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The National Science Foundation has given the University of Arkansas $51,300 for research on worm transmission of tobacco ringspot virus.

Recent investigations at the university show that tobacco ringspot virus is soil-borne and worm transmitted. The research project is designed to provide more information on the virus-nematode association.

Civic Centers Planned In Three Cities

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Staff Writer

For years Little Rock has grabbed the lion's share of Arkansas' convention business with Hot Springs, banking on its appeal as a resort, picking up most of the remainder.

Until now Little Rock's central location, downtown hotel facilities and Robinson Auditorium left it without a serious challenger.

But this week Hot Springs broke ground for a $1.5 million auditorium and convention center. Fort Smith has a municipal auditorium on the drawing boards and Pine Bluff plans a convention facility in connection with its $2.2 million civic center.

Chamber of Commerce officials at Hot Springs, Fort Smith and Pine Bluff said their cities will bid more aggressively for conventions when the new facilities are completed.

The convention business is big. In 1962, according to chamber figures, Little Rock was host to 338 conventions which drew 108,598 delegates who spent $7,258,000.

During the same period, 241 conventions in Hot Springs drew an estimated 39,000 delegates who spent $3,550,000. Pine Bluff had 37 meetings in the first eight months of 1962 and 7,500 delegates who spent $370,000.

While other cities are building, Little Rock continues to talk about a convention center. Reports circulated in November that the Urban Renewal Administration was negotiating a lease with a private hotel chain which would build a downtown center, but these reports were denied by the parties concerned.

Hot Springs, Fort Smith and Pine Bluff are building with public funds. Hot Springs expects to have its facility ready by the end of this year. Fort Smith's auditorium can be ready within 18 months if voters approve an urban renewal program. Pine Bluff will be in operation within three years if its civic center bond issue is approved by the courts.

Mort Cox, manager of the Hot Springs chamber, predicts a boom in convention business in the spa. Cox did not want to discuss possible competition with Little Rock but said, "Let's just say it will put us in a better position to bid for bigger conventions."

Both Bill Senter, assistant chamber manager of Fort Smith, and Charles Varn, manager of the Pine Bluff chamber, said their cities definitely will go after convention business more aggressively in the future.

Fort Smith's convention drawing power now is so small that the chamber doesn't even keep figures on it. This will change, Senter said.

Varn said Pine Bluff has moved into the convention field with more enthusiasm since Holiday Inn recently completed a $225,000 banquet hall which will seat 500. The civic center facility, which will be built in connection with an armory, can seat 1,500 for dining.

Hot Springs will be able to feed 2,500 in its auditorium and Fort Smith will be able to stage banquets for 1,000.

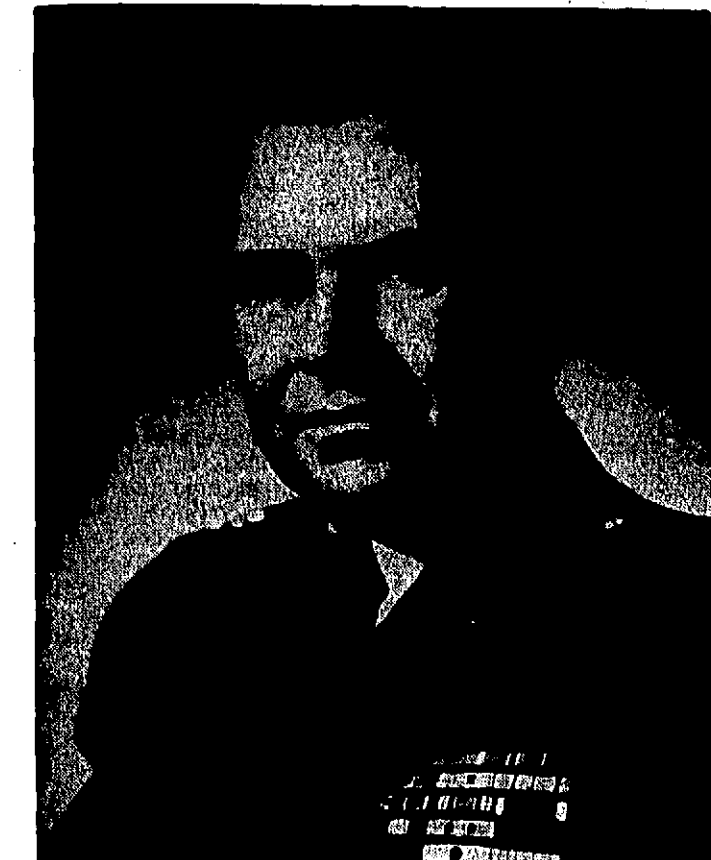

All three of these will have a larger capacity than Robinson Auditorium, which will seat 1,200 for dining.

Little Rock and Hot Springs will retain an advantage in the number of conveniently located hotels and motel accommodations, but new facilities are being built in both Fort Smith and Pine Bluff.

Senter estimates Fort Smith now can accommodate 850 to 900 guests. Varn says Pine Bluff can handle 540. These figures are expected to be higher by the time convention facilities are completed.

The Little Rock Chamber of Commerce is hoping for a convention facility which can provide complete services for a convention with 2,000 to 3,000 delegates.

Major General Hope Native

Major General Harry J. Lemley Jr.

By Mary Anita Laseler

For the first time a Major General in the United States Army is a native of Hope. He is Maj. Gen. Harry J. Lemley, Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. Harry Lemley of our city.

Born and reared in Hope, the General is a graduate of Hope High and Marion (Ala.) Military Institute. He finished the U.S. Military Academy in 1935. Three years later he was married to the former Margaret Cusack, and they are the parents of two daughters and a son, Margaret C. Lemley, II, Elizabeth K. Lemley, and Harry J. Lemley, III.

In war and peace General Lemley has served his country well. During World War II, he was assigned to the 18th Field Artillery Brigade, which later became the VI Corps Artillery, serving as executive officer in North Africa, Italy, France, and Germany. For valor in action, he holds military citations, and decorations from Italy and France as well as the United States.

He was on the Anzio beachhead for five months, and one of his closest friends during that time was the chaplain, Capt. Eunace A. Wallace, who happened to be from Ozan. Unfortunately, he never returned.

War in Korea was the reason Lemley was sent there in 1953. As Executive Officer, Commanding Officer, and Chief of Staff of the 7th Infantry Division he saw action in some of the bloodiest campaigns, including Pork Chop Hill. He was later made Artillery Officer of the 8th U.S. Army. This tour of duty resulted in his achieving the Distinguished Military Service Medal (Ulchi) with Silver Star (Korea).

Not all overseas duty has been during wartime. For instance, he has served in Germany twice since the conclusion of WW II. Immediately after the war, General Lemley served in Berlin as a member of the Armed Forces Division, Office of Military Government. After a tour of duty in the states and Korea, he returned to Germany in 1958 as Assistant Chief of Staff, 7th U.S. Army. The next year he was assigned to Headquarters, U.S. Army Europe.

As you would expect, the General speaks German fluently, and this is an advantage, if not a necessity, in the positions he has filled. Since so many of their formative years were spent in Germany, the daughters of the General also speak that language. The young son was merely exposed to it, so he isn't so fluent.

Has the General from Hope ever been assigned duties in this country? To be sure. At the beginning of his career he served at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.; Ft. Clayton, Panama Canal Zone; and Ft. Sill, Okla. After attending the National War College 1954-55, he was assigned to the Office of the Asst. Chief of Staff Intelligence, U.S. Army, where he served as Chief Estimates Branch, Chief Production Div., and Deputy Director of Foreign Intelligence.

Since August 1, 1961, Major General Harry J. Lemley, Jr. has been Assistant Commandant of the United States Army Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

With Gen. Joe C. Lambert of Washington, Gen. John Calvin Alumn of Prescott, and now Gen. Harry Lemley, Jr. of Hope, the general area of Southwest Arkansas is becoming an area of generals.

Food Poisoning Hits School

MERTSALES, Ind. (AP) — Nearly 200 pupils and 13 teachers at the Holton School were stricken all Thursday night and early today with food poisoning, apparently from turkey salad sandwiches served in the school's cafeteria Thursday.

Reports were given by officers, chairmen of the national committees, and chairmen of special committees.

Hostesses were Mrs. George Frazier, Mrs. O. A. Graves, Mrs. E. D. Dobson and Mrs. Charles A. Haynes.

Tshombe Will Attempt Last Ditch Stand

By DENNIS NEEDLE
and ADRIAN PORTER

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Katanga President Moise Tshombe arrived in British-controlled Northern Rhodesia today after a secret dash from Elisabethville.

Diplomats speculated he plans to give the signal for a last-ditch stand against U.N. forces.

The Katangan leader met briefly with members of his Cabinet here, then told a news conference he would return to Elisabethville tonight and go to Kolwezi on Monday. Kolwezi, key mining center 150 miles northwest of Elisabethville, is the last important town held by Katangan gendarmes and Tshombe's white mercenaries.

Diplomatic sources and U.N. officials in Elisabethville said they doubted that Tshombe would return to the provincial capital. They felt that he would head directly for Kolwezi, where his men have mined vital industrial installations. Tshombe has threatened repeatedly to blow up the installations if the U.N. troops attempt to take the town by force.

U.N. troops advancing toward Kolwezi from Jadoville were last reported about 50 miles from the town.

The British and Belgian consuls in Elisabethville who saw Tshombe, minutes before he slipped out in a police jeep, described him as a frightened and dejected man. He appeared to be on his last leg in his long struggle to keep his wealthy province independent of the Congo.

Tshombe traveled by bush roads to reach Ndola, just across the Rhodesian border.

The two consuls said they tried vainly to persuade Tshombe not to go, but said he was alarmed by the sudden arrival in Elisabethville of 60 officers of the Congolese national army and a Leopoldville delegation headed by Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula's personal adviser.

Western diplomats said that Tshombe had refused to sign a document agreeing to U.N. freedom of movement in Katanga and recognizing President Joseph Kasavubu as head of a reintegrated Congo. Some sources said he now faces the threat of arrest and transfer to Leopoldville, where charges of treason could be laid against him.

Diplomatic informants reported Friday that Tshombe had offered to yield to the United Nations if allowed to remain as a provincial president of a reunified Congo.

He wanted the U.N. to relay his proposal to the Congo government, they said, but the U.N. took the position that such matters are the concern only of the Congolese people.

The U.N. advance on Kolwezi was delayed by blasted bridges, but giant U.S. transport planes are pouring loads of bridging equipment and other military supplies into Elisabethville.

Officials were worried, however, lest Tshombe order the blowing up of hydroelectric sites at Kolwezi, which provide 75 per cent of the Congo power supply.

Informants said Tshombe also had wanted the central government to grant full pardons to his Cabinet ministers and officials in the secessionist Katanga regime and to grant amnesties to his army and police.

Protests End of Rail Service

PUXICO, Mo. (AP)—About 200 southeast Missouri residents met in Puxico Thursday to protest the proposed end of railroad service to several towns in that area and in northern Arkansas.

The St. Louis-San Francisco (Frisco) Railway announced about a month ago it wanted to abandon a 104-mile stretch of railroad between Advance, Mo. and Pocahontas, Ark.

Thomas Baker, a Missouri legislator and a resident of Stoddard County in which the line runs, was chosen at the meeting to head a 15-member protest committee. Baker said the group will hire a lawyer to make a formal protest to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The railway had asked the ICC for permission to close the line. Baker said the group would ask the ICC to hold public meetings in the area before the line is abandoned.

Three weekly freight trains run on the stretch of railroad and one freight train daily during the harvest season. There are no passenger trains.

DR. PRUITT'S BODY

By KENNETH O. HAY
THE STORY: Matt Bacon, a private investigator, has found very few clues concerning what happened to Dr. Pruitt, a missing nuclear scientist.

Suzi Stevenson gave Matt a smiling look in Corbin Bradley's reception room. "Yes?"

"The boss in?"

"Mister Bradley is downstairs attending a Rotary luncheon," she said.

"Okay. I'll talk to you, sweet heart."

The young woman smiled tolerantly. Matt liked the smile, and was indifferent to the tolerance. She was very pretty, he decided.

"Okay, Miss Stevenson. I'll set for information. Who's Pruitt's boss?"

"Simon Rispin. He's the head of all research. Shall I arrange an appointment?"

"I've had one. Anyone else that gave Pruitt orders?"

"Men like Chester Pruitt don't have to be given orders. They know what they're supposed to do."

"Come now. Everybody takes orders from somebody. Who'd he work with?"

"Dr. Stroup and Dr. Baylor. But you can't talk to them. They're in the nuclear lab. You can't go in there!"

"I've got a pass from Bradley. The door on the far side of the reception room, marked Malcolm Westfall, swung open and a blond ivy-league young man bounced out.

"Is this gentleman bothering you, Suzi?" he asked.

Suzi looked up at Westfall with an expression of awe, as if Westfall was second in command of the universe.

"This is Mr. Bacon, Mr. Westfall," said Suzi. "He's working for us."

"What department?" Westfall demanded, half belligerently.

"I'm a private detective, Mr. Westfall. Mr. Bradley asked me to look into the Pruitt matter."

Westfall's manner changed quickly. Part of this was due to the dropping of Bradley's name, but most of it was the Pruitt case, everybody's hot potato.

"Oh, I see. You came here for help."

"You might say that. Tell me what you know about Pruitt's disappearance."

Westfall pursed his lips with a great show of importance. "Yes, I suppose you must have a statement from me. M-m-m. Last Thursday, in the morning I called him out of the hot lab—that's where... well it's a pretty classified department, Mr. Bacon, and I'm not supposed to discuss what goes on there without security clearance."

"I understand," said Matt. "I don't really think it has a bearing in the case."

"Chet—Mr. — Dr. Pruitt, hadn't turned in his report and I asked him for it. He told me, in language that I never expected to hear from him, that it wasn't ready. At lunch, I stopped by the table where he and Mr. Johnson were sitting and reminded him of the report again. Again his reply was insolent."

"Exactly what did he say?"

"He—uh—he said for me to—ugh—get lost in a cess pool. I would have reprimanded him, except that we have to overlook certain eccentricities. I dropped in his lab about three and got it from him. Earlier I sent Suzi over to ask him for it and he told her he'd have it ready."

"Notice anything peculiar about his actions?"

"Nothing, but his language. Usually Chet is a very mild mannered man. Very polite. Very reasonable."

Westfall went back to his office and Matt faced Suzi. "I'd like to talk to some of Dr. Pruitt's associates," he said. "Can you arrange an appointment right away?"

"I'll see," said Suzi. She lifted her phone, asked for the appliance building and then inquired if Dr. Baylor and Dr. Stroup were free at the moment. "Thank you," said Suzi, replacing the phone. She turned to Matt. "Dr. Stroup is tied up, but will see you in about twenty minutes. Dr. Baylor has just come from the lab and can see you now."

Matt thanked her and went to the Nuclear Lab, which faced the Appliance building. A security officer checked Matt's badge and pass and admitted him to a short hallway. At the end was a reception room, empty save for a few chairs and a bare table.

Almost immediately a door opened and a figure appeared.

It took Matt a couple of seconds to recognize that the figure was a woman, clad in coveralls which completely hid her figure. Her hair was short like a man's and she wore a cap. Only her lipstick and the softness of her features revealed her sex.

"Mr. Bacon?" she asked.

"Yes," said Matt with a nod. "I came to see Dr. Baylor."

"I'm Dr. Baylor," said the woman. She waited, watching Matt's jaw drop with amusement. "Close your mouth. It's more becoming."

VI

"I'm in a state of shock," said Matt. "I don't know what I expected to see, but it didn't occur to me that Dr. Baylor might be a woman. A young and pretty woman at that."

"I'm 27, which is the age most girls consider the beginning of spinsterhood."

Matt had recovered from shock. Watching those bulky, baggy coveralls he noted that in spite of them she was able to disclose an attractive filling.

"Dr. Baylor, I—"

"Let's be informal. Shall we? I'm Beth—the full name is Marybeth. You're—Matt, isn't that the name?"

"Yes, Beth. You worked with Dr. Pruitt?"

"Yes indeed. I came here about a year and a half ago. Right after I got my Ph.D."

By this time, Matt had decided that career spinsterhood and a Ph. D. were not objectionable in a young woman, although he usually preferred the types who weren't smarter than he. A man has enough trouble even with dumb girls he thought.

"What kind of a man was he?"

"Chet? An angel. Sometimes I thought he was an angel of darkness... not for the reason you're thinking. He was a devil for accuracy. Everything had to be precise. He was a perfectionist. But such a nice man."

"What is your position, Beth? Were you his assistant? Co-worker?"

"It's sort of in-between. You see all of us, Wes—that's Dr. Wesley Stroup—Chet and I were on a project. We're under security wraps. But the power angle is no secret. We were on different phases of the same project."

"Got any ideas why he disappeared?"

"Ideas? Plenty. Facts, none. I talked to Chet the morning before he disappeared. He acted preoccupied, but that's his usual atom, ordinary things never concerned him."

"Did he have any enemies?"

"None of the blood-thirsty sort. He wasn't the kind to make people hate him. Some people didn't understand him. Perhaps others disliked him. But no one who might have done away with him. Do you think he was murdered?"

Matt disregarded the question. "You said you had ideas about Pruitt's disappearance. What, for instance?"

"They aren't ideas that anybody would take seriously, Matt."

"Try me and see."

"We've been fussing around with atomic particles. You know there are still a lot of things no one understands about electrons, positrons, protons, anti-protons, and so on. Maybe we'll never learn all there is to know. But there's quite a bit of speculation on anti-matter—that is matter made of positrons, positive electrons, and anti-protons, negative protons, and anti-neutrons. A few fancy thinkers believe that creation of the universe was a division of nothing, into our universe and one exactly like it composed of anti-matter."

"From zero we came and to zero we return," said Matt.

"That's it exactly. Gee, you're real smart, Mr. Private Detective. Everything that is in one universe will be in the anti-universe as a mirror image. Chet believed that some sort of bridge could be made from one universe to the other and this would release unlimited power."

"Now my idea is that Chet bridged the gap. But in the other universe, his mirror image was working on the same project and also succeeded in bridging the gap. Chester Pruitt and Chester Anti - Pruitt met and canceled out."

Matt Bacon closed his eyes and beat his forehead with the palm of his hand. "You're laughing at me!"

"Well, it's as good an idea as anybody has come up with yet," she said.

"Do me a favor, Beth. If you get any more ideas, please keep them to yourself," he said. "But I'm glad I met you."

She stood up and Matt stood up beside her.

"If you're glad, we'll have to do something about it," she said softly.

She grasped his arms with her hands, tilted her face upward. Their lips met briefly. She moved back slightly. "Mmm. Not bad!" She let his arms encircle her and their lips met again, longer this time.

The door at the other end of the room opened. A throat was cleared. Matt Bacon and Beth Taylor separated.

"Marybeth," said a voice. "Your technician is looking for you."

She smiled at Matt. "It's getting crowded in here. I'll have to leave. Matt, this is Dr. Wesley Stroup. Dr. Stroup, Matt Bacon."

As the men shook hands, Beth Taylor left.

Girl, 13, Speaks Her No-Mind

GIRL, 13, SPEAKS HER NO-MIND

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: You and that high school sophomore who signed himself Sonny make me sick. So he thinks 13-year-old girls who wear lipstick are plain fools! I have worn lipstick since the sixth grade and I'm in the ninth now.

Sonny must be very dull—like the goody-goody who signed herself Old-Fashioned. Too bad they can't get together.

It's not the make-up but the quality of the girl that counts. If a little lipstick, eyebrow pencil and a touch of rouge makes her prettier, okay. At least she cares for her looks. We lipstick wearers don't need any so-called sound advice, nor are we little know-it-alls as some people think. Have you the courage to print this? —The Troublemaker

Dear Little Trouble: You assume yours is the only point of view, thereby revealing your youthfulness.

Dear Helen: I recently sent you a letter which you printed. It concerned my defense of 13-year-old girls wearing lipstick. When I read it, I realized how unbecoming it sounded. My parents and I were very embarrassed, especially as our friends mentioned it. I am sorry I used such insulting language and apologize to you.

If you wish, you may print this to let everyone know that I am sorry. —Betsy Marshall, Sunnyvale, Calif.

Dear Betsy: What a nice letter! It shows that you, unlike Troublemaker, are growing up.

Dear Helen: I'm not one to turn the other cheek as you recently advised a harassed mother to do. She came to that neighborhood looking for a friendly haven and found instead a hell.

Why should she move with a smile and shower those mean, ignorant neighbors with small gifts. Why shouldn't she have a chip on her shoulder—subconsciously or otherwise—as you imply? Let her move at her own convenience that scrooge of a landlady notwithstanding. Let her ignore those awful people who complain about her little boy and his dog. "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," is my doctrine. I learned it the hard way. —Mrs. W.

Dear Mrs. W.: You'll spend the rest of your life learning the hard way unless you reverse our thinking. Most assuredly we should have the self-reliance and courage to assert ourselves when we are in the right but to advocate the outmoded code of "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," is to be destructive not constructive. Looking for a trouble and finding it—as you surely will if you take this attitude, becomes a habit. Don't get the habit or the habit will get you! Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "A Sense of Humor."

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

No Opinion on California Nudist Group

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Jack Holt Jr. declined today to issue a legal opinion to a California nudist group which wanted to know if Arkansas' anti-nudism laws would be enforced if the group held in 44th annual convocation at Little Rock Feb. 14-17.

Holt said his office is required to issue a legal opinion to a California designated state agencies and officials and he would deny the request from Robert Clogher, executive secretary of an organization which calls itself "The Perfect Christian Divine Way Inc." of Holy City, Calif.

Clogher's group has conducted a running fight against Arkansas Act 38 of 1957 which prohibits practice or advocacy of nudism.

Clogher said in his letter to Holt that the Little Rock meeting would be to petition the Arkansas Legislature to repeal the act on grounds that it violates constitutionally-guaranteed freedoms.

Clogher said his organization advocates nudism under the Book of Thomas in the Bible, "any desecrations," Clogher wrote, "any disciples of Jesus putting Thomas 87:37 into practice would have something to fear, that is, the minions of the law enforcing Act 38."

Two years ago Clogher's group threatened to hold an exhibition on July 4 on the steps of the state capital. A crowd gathered but no one from Holy City put in an appearance.

She smiled at Matt. "It's getting crowded in here. I'll have to leave. Matt, this is Dr. Wesley Stroup. Dr. Stroup, Matt Bacon."

As the men shook hands, Beth Taylor left.

Don't Attend
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An aide to Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Thursday the governor has declined an invitation to attend a Democratic Party gathering in Washington Jan. 16-19. The meet-

Compromise True, Says Mr. Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — News stories speculating about a compromise on teacher retirement have been essentially correct, Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today.

The compromise was worked out Thursday at a meeting attended by Faubus and education officials, but no details were announced. The governor is scheduled to outline the plan in a statement to be released later today.

Speculation has been that the state will contribute about $10.5 million to the Teacher Retirement System during the next biennium. This amount would keep unfunded liability of the system from increasing.

Faubus said after the Thursday meeting that there had been a "meeting of minds" on the retirement problem and that he did not expect any controversy over it in the 1963 legislature.

Teacher retirement became the hottest issue of the 1961 legislature when Faubus insisted on setting the state's two-year contribution at $7.6 million instead of about $12 million as requested by the Arkansas Education Association.

Retirement contributions come from a fund allocated principally for teachers' salaries. The dispute centered around whether teachers wanted the money allotted for retirement benefits or pay in creases.

Sentence Is Reduced

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The prison sentence of Freeman Bramlett, 58, of Pocahontas, a man once condemned to death for a slaying, was reduced from 45 to 37 years Thursday by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Bramlett was sentenced to death in 1941 for the fatal shooting of Charlie Goad of Marion. His sentence was commuted in 1942 by former Gov. Homer M. Adams to life imprisonment and in 1957 Faubus reduced the term to 45 years.

Bramlett was paroled Feb. 13 that year and records show he is now self-employed in Pocahontas.

John Browning, who handles parole matters for Faubus, said the Thursday action makes Bramlett eligible for restoration of citizenship rights.

Bramlett voluntarily surrendered himself to prison officials March 10, 1959 and his parole was revoked because he had a drinking problem, records show. The parole was restored Apr. 26, 1961.

Service Counts on Pension

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Jack Holt said today his office has found a provision in Arkansas law which permits some military service to be counted in determining eligibility for a fireman's pension.

Holt advised D. Pat Moran, city attorney at Batesville, of the law. The attorney general's office earlier had advised Moran that military service time could not be counted toward a pension.

Holt said the law covers military service between Sept. 16, 1940 and Dec. 31, 1946, and is contingent on the applicant being under civil service or the merit system when he was inducted and on his returning to his job within 90 days after his discharge.

ing of all Democratic governors and state party officials will include a breakfast with President Kennedy. The aide said Faubus felt the visit would come too soon after his Jan. 15 inauguration and said the state legislature would be in session then.

Romney Buys More Motor Co. Stock

By BEN PHLEGAR
DETROIT (AP)—Gov. George Romney of Michigan bought 13,494 shares of American Motors stock for $99,000 less than the market price on the day before he resigned from the auto company last November.
The bargain purchase, possible because of previously granted stock options, boosted Romney's holdings to about 118,000 shares, by far the largest of any individual.
For the 3½ months he served as chairman and president of American Motors before announcing his candidacy for governor, Romney was paid $73,608 in salary and bonus.
He received $149,211 for the previous full year.
The figures were disclosed today in the proxy statement for the annual shareholders meeting of American Motors, to be held in Detroit Feb. 6.
Romney was elected governor on Nov. 6 and severed all connections with AMC on Nov. 15.
At that time he said he was placing his stock in trust while serving as governor.

Civic Association Makes Plans For New Year

The Hope Civic Improvement Association held its first meeting of the new year Thursday, January 10, 1963.

The group decided to hold two meetings per month, the 1st and 4th Thursdays. A special meeting will be held January 24th and all members are asked to attend and to urge their congregations to become members of the organization.

George Smith, Jr., presented a check in the amount of $100.00, which was given by Alex H. Washburn, Editor of the Hope Star. This check is Mr. Washburn's annual donation to the organization which is given for the Hope City Park Fund. H. L. Washington, President.

Titans to Start Coming Into State

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The first of 18 nuclear Titan II missiles to be installed in launching sites now under construction in central Arkansas will arrive in the state late next month, the Air Force said today.

A reliable source indicated the first missile will be installed in a site near Searcy either late next month or earlier in March.

The Air Force said more than half of the 18 sites have been turned over to the Martin-Marietta Co. for installation of weapons system equipment and final checkout.

Installation of missiles in the various sites is expected at intervals through this year.

An Air Force spokesman said the first of the 102-foot missiles will be flown to the Little Rock Air Force Base from Denver. It will be moved to two sections which will be joined after they are lowered into the launching silo.

The missile sites have been under construction since Jan. 9, 1961. They are located in several counties in a rough arc north of the air base.

After the missiles are installed,

Union Claims Support for Dock Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The chief negotiator for striking longshoremen claims all-out support from 12 other dock and ship unions.

Thomas Gleason, executive vice president of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association told newsmen Thursday about the support by other unions in the 20-day-old strike and said:

"Everyone agrees that on merit we are entitled to everything we have asked for."

Federal mediation efforts continue today in the Atlantic and Gulf coast strike.

James J. Reynolds, assistant secretary of labor, met again Thursday with representatives of both sides in the contract dispute and said later he had "no progress report whatsoever."

Gleason met Thursday with leaders of unions representing seamen, tugboat men, ship deck officers, truck drivers and other workers in the shipping industry.

He said the unions voted to fight any antislavery legislation that might be introduced in Congress as a result of the strike by 60,000 members of the ILA.

The ILA demands a package increase of 50 cents an hour, including 26 cents in wages, over two years. The New York Shiping Association, which represents 145 shipping and stevedoring companies, has offered 22 cents over two years. The prestrike basic wage averaged $3.02 an hour.

Contract terms reached between the union and the employer association here traditionally set a pattern for settlements in other ports.

In Washington, Rep. Herbert C. Bonner, D-N.C., chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee, urged Thursday that Congress act quickly to prevent strikes such as the dock walkout.

Bonner told the House that the ILA strike "flies in the face of our commitments abroad, our modernized trade policy, and accentuates our balance-of-payments problems which are threatening the very sanctity of the dollar."

The strike is a resumption of a brief strike last year which President Kennedy ended temporarily with a court order for an 80-day cooling-off period under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Three bases will be operated by men of the 388th Strategic Missile Wing with headquarters at the air base.

Each of the 18 underground sites will have five combat crews of four men each to man it around the clock. Each crew will work an eight hour shift.

The Titan II is an intercontinental ballistic missile with a range of more than 6,000 miles with a speed of more than 15,000 miles an hour.

The missile have inertial guidance systems which will guide them to pre-assigned targets without instructions from the launching base. The systems do not depend on radio and cannot be jammed.

Titan II missiles use liquid fuel which will be stored in tanks inside the missile.

The launching silos will be covered with 400-ton sliding doors which designers say will resist any attack except a direct hit by a nuclear weapon.

JFK Expects Going to Get Tougher

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arithmetic makes sense until humans get mixed up in it.

This is why President Kennedy, who went to Harvard, has trouble making his numbers come out right when he does his homework on Congress.

Yet if numbers mean anything—and you'd think they would in Congress—Kennedy is in pretty good shape compared with other presidents in the past 100 years.

But from the way he talks he expects rather rough going with the legislators who opened his own Wednesday even though his own Democrats are far more plentiful than Republicans.

No matter how much he adds and subtracts his problem is getting the Democrats, whose party made a lot of campaign promises in the 1960 elections, to stick together and vote as a party.

He had the same trouble doing it these past two years although the two parties were divided just about the same, with the Democrats way out in front.

In the Senate this year there are 67 Democrats and 33 Republicans, a plurality of 34 for the Democrats.

Since there are 100 seats in the Senate, the Democrats' 67 give them 67 per cent of the membership.

In the past 100 years only four other presidents—Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, and Franklin D. Roosevelt—had a higher percentage of their own party in the Senate.

The Democrats outnumber the Republicans in the House—which has 435 seats—258 to 176. There's one vacancy.

This means they have a plurality of 82 members or 59 per cent of the total membership.

Of the 19 men who have sat in the White House since 1863, including Kennedy, 10 others at least once in their presidency had a higher percentage of their own party in the House.

Those 10 were Lincoln, Johnson, Grant, Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, Wilson, Harding, Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman.

Nevertheless, although Kennedy is not as well-fixed in the House as 10 other presidents, he's better off than eight.

But all the arithmetic gets goofy because no one ever learned how to condition all the members of a president's party in Congress to shut "yes, sir," when he pushed a buzzer.

Many a president must have wondered, after seeing what happened to his programs in Congress, if anyone ever conditioned the legislators into simply saying "yes" to anything.

Kennedy's idea of conditioning Congress into happy reflex actions when he asks for something is to try flattery, persuasion, oratory and maybe a little mild arm-twisting on the legislators.

After two years of it he doesn't seem to think he's had spectacular success. Otherwise he wouldn't be telling reporters he expects to have just about the same trouble he's had these past two years.

Interstate Land

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Purchase of land between Gum Springs and Caddo Valley for construction of a section of Interstate Highway 30-west of Arkadelphia will be begun shortly by the state Highway Department. Ward G. O. O. M. A. n, chief engineer, said Thursday the department hopes to complete acquisition of the land, 9.2 acres, in six weeks.

'Learn by Doing' Proves Valuable For 4-H'er Pair

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Experience is a good teacher. And the experiences of two Arkansas 4-H Club members taught them the value of their training. Both visited the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, according to the Co-operative Extension Service.

The two 4-H'ers are Beverly Wherry, 16, of Warren, and Patrick Bryant, 17, of Pine Bluff.

Some girls wear ribbons. Miss Wherry collects them. She's collected scores of ribbons among hundreds of honors and recognitions in seven years of 4-H Club work. She won the 1962 state swine program award, sponsored by the Moorman Mfg. Co.

Bryant won the 1962 state field crops award, sponsored by the Arcadian Products Department, Allied Chemical Corporation.

Bryant rents 35 acres from his father and this year planted certified Jackson soybeans. He has been a 4-H Club member three years and has completed 85 projects in 1962 alone.

An estimated 1,500 delegates from 50 states and Puerto Rico exchanged viewpoints on "Citizenship in Action," this year's National 4-H Club Congress theme.

Hope Cagers Take 2 From Smackover

By CARTER HARDAGE

Last night, Hope really gave Smackover a rough going-over, winning two games, one an important conference game, The Bobkittens crushed Smackover 36-11, and the Bobcats smacked Smackover 64-40.

The Junior Boys put up a fine defense, so good, in fact, that Smackover failed to score a single field until well into the Third Quarter. As Coach Ballard said, "They looked good," while Smackover was busy scoring their only four points in the First Half, all on free throws. Hope popped in 8 the First Quarter and 15 in the Second to lead 23-4 at the Half. Then, while Smackover filled their quota of two points in the Third Quarter, Hope not only scored nine points, but also halted the game momentarily to find a contact lens lost by Sammy Strong. The Bobkittens finally won 36-11. Ronnie Ingram led the scoring with a big 13 points. Others scoring were: Parris and Watkins with 5 each, Ramsey and May with Hapiece, Turner with 3, and McGill rounding things out with 2. Parker scored 6 for Buckarous.

In their second Conference clash of the season, Hope whipped Smackover 64-40, to make their Conference record 1-1. Last week they fell 63-59 to Malvern. Coach Mitchell's statement, "Everybody played a real good ball game," seems to sum things up pretty well. Hope broke into an early 12-10 lead at the Quarter, but almost put the baskets on fire by scoring 28 points in the

Americanism

Liberty, as proclaimed by law and constitutions, can never have full meaning without the added ingredients of Fraternity and Brotherhood; without the spirit of friendliness and unselfishness... love for one's fellows. Those powerful qualifying attributes help spell out what Americanism is.

When one sees a family unit, parents and children, with Bibles in hand, attending church to worship as they please... then one is witnessing Liberty in its finest and most fullsome forms, for that, too, is American. Freedom of religious worship is equally important, along with economic freedom and freedom from oppression, in America.

Then worship God as you please but be sure to worship... that is Americanism.

It is Paid For By Firms Who Hope To Measure Their Reward In Greater Numbers Of People Attending Church.

So They May See == Psalm 17 == So They May Hear

HEAR THE RIGHT, O Lord, attend unto my cry, give ear unto my prayer, that goeth not out of feigned lips.

2. Let my sentence come forth from thy presence; let thine eyes behold the things that are equal.

3. Thou has proved mine heart; thou hast visited me in the night; thou has tried me, and shalt find nothing; I am purposed that my mouth shall not transgress.

4. Concerning the works of men, by the word of thy lips I have kept me from the paths of the destroyer.

5. Hold up my goings in thy paths, that my footsteps slip not.

6. I have called upon thee, for thou wilt hear me, O God: incline thine ear unto me, and hear my speech.

7. Shew thy marvellous lovingkindness, O thou that savest by thy right hand them which put their trust in thee from those that rise up against them.

KEEP ME as the apple of the eye, hide me under the shadow of thy wings,

9. From the wicked that oppress me, from my deadly enemies, who compass me about.

10. They are inclosed in their own fat: with their mouth they speak proudly.

11. They have now compassed us in our steps: they have set their eyes bowing down to the earth;

12. Like as a lion that is greedy of his prey, and as it were a young lion lurking in secret places.

13. Arise, O Lord, disappoint him, cast him down: deliver my soul from the wicked, which is thy sword.

14. From men which are thy hand, O Lord, from men of the world, which have their portion in this life, and whose belly thou fillest with thy hid treasure: they are full of children and leave the rest of their substance to their babes.

15. As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness.
